NEW BOOKS—NOW READY.

By Sir Walter Besant.

The Orange Girl.

By SIR WALTER BESANT. With eight illustrations by Warren Davis. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The Orange Girl" is a tale of the Eighteenth Century. The heroine is taken from the criminal classes. She begins her career as an orange girl at Drury Lane Theatre, and by reason of her beauty and talent finally becomes a popular actress. Her nature is inherently fine and noble, and vicious surroundings seem but to intensify and develop the strength and purity of her character. It is well told, racy of the time, and very readable.

By S. R. Crockett.

Ione March, A Woman of Fortune.

By S. R. CROCKETT. With illustrations by E. Pollak. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

In "A Woman of Fortune" Mr. Crockett has written his first American story. It is a novel of to-day, and the heroine is an American girl, highly educated and beautiful, and of an independent spirit. The scene is laid in Switzerland and in England.

OTHER NEW BOOKS.

The Etchingham Letters.

By SIR FREDERICK POLLOCK and Mrs. FULLER MAITLAND. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

These letters, which have been running serially in the Cornhill Magazine in England, and the Living Age in America, have created not a little comment on both sides of the ocean.

Well, After All.

By F. FRANKFORT MOORE, author of "The Fatal Gift," etc., etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Unlike "The Fatal Gift" and other semi-historical novels by the same author, this story concerns itself with social life in England of the present day.

Holland and the Hollanders.

By DAVID S. MELDRUM, author of "The Story of Margredel." Illustrated. 8vo, $2.00.

Without being statistical, it is full of exact and comprehensive information, not only about the country in its ordinary aspects, but its people and institutions, with which Mr. Meldrum has a most intimate acquaintance.

The Life of the Spirit.

By HAMILTON W. MABIE. Uniform with Mr. Mabie's Works. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

In a series of short chapters Mr. Mabie has endeavored to set the great truths of the religious life in vital relation to human experience, and to indicate their inevitable relation to men's life and work.

"Modern English Writers."

No. 1 of a new and important series of Literary Monographs—biographical and critical. The volumes are published in a handy 12mo size. Price, each, $1.25.

Now ready: Matthew Arnold, by Professor Saintsbury. Soon to follow: Stevenson, by L. Cope Cornford.

The Heir of Sherburne.

Uniform with the volumes already published. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This is a new volume in the Sherburne Series, continuing the story of Lyndell Sherburne and her family.

Rip Van Winkle.

Being the text of the play by Joseph Jefferson. Illustrated with a new portrait of Mr. Jefferson, and with drawings from scenes in the play, by Richard Creifelds, and five illustrations from designs by Joseph Jefferson. A new edition. 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

The Tory Maid.

By H. B. STIMPSON. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

The American Revolution serves as a background for this love-story, which is blended with the history of that period in a felicitous way.

The above books are for sale by booksellers generally, or can be had of the publishers,

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE regular Fall Parcel Sale will be held at the auction rooms of Bangs & Co., 91 Fifth Avenue, New York, October 24 and following days. The regular Remainder Sale, which will be exclusively for the trade, will be held in February next.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish at once a book on the Dreyfus case, entitled "The Tragedy of Dreyfus." The book has been prepared by G. W. Steevens, author of "With Kitchener to Khartoum." Mr. Steevens was in constant attendance at the Rennes court-martial, and his work may be taken as authoritative, at least from the point of view of an experienced reporter and correspondent.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. have just ready "We Win," by Herbert E. Hamblen, intended for young men especially, giving a clear presentation of the opportunities offered to bright, industrious young men by the vast railroad interests of this country; also, "The Barrys," by Shan F. Bullock, a novel of Irish life with a heroine possessing all the charm of the maids of Erin as delineated by the author in his former tales of Irish country life.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS are about to issue an attractive pocket edition of Dickens's novels in a series to be known as The New Century Library. The volumes will appear monthly, and will be printed from a clear, readable long-primer type on their "Royal" India paper, which is made of stock so thin that a sixteenmo volume of 800 pages is but a trifle over three-eighths of an inch thick. Notwithstanding the thinness of the sheet, the paper is quite opaque. Dickens's novels will be followed by those of Thackeray, Scott, and others.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 27th inst. Donald G. Mitchell's new volume of "American Lands and Letters," which is described by the New York Tribune to be "one of the most delightful of rambles in the highways and byways of literature"; "On Trial," a new novel by "Zack," author of "Life is Life"; a new edition, without illustrations, of "King Noanett," F. J. Stimson's story of Old Virginia and Massachusetts Bay, formerly published by Lamson, Wolffe & Co.; "A Child's Primer of Natural History," a series of rhymes with accompanying drawings, both by Oliver Herford, in which the author finds full play for his wit and humorous philosophy of life; also, "Babylonians and Assyrians: their life and customs," by Prof. A. H. Sayce, which forms the initial volume of the Semitic Series.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. publish to-day "The Dutch and Quaker Colonies in America," by John Fiske, a work in two volumes, of remarkable importance, which comes next in sequence to "Beginnings of New England," in Fiske's American history; "Horace Bushnell," by Theodore T. Munger, who has much in common with Dr. Bushnell, for many years one of the brightest and clearest lights of the American pulpit; "God's Education of Man," by William De Witt Hyde, President of Bowdoin College; and "Letters and Passages from Letters of Ralph Waldo Emerson to a Friend, 1838–1853," edited by Charles Eliot Norton. They have also ready illustrated Octavo editions of "Longfellow" and "Scott"; "Under the Cactus Flag," a story of Mexico, by Nora Archibald Smith; and "Animal and Plant Lore," forming Vol. VII. of the "Memoirs of the American Folk-Lore Society," collected and annotated by Fanny D. Bergen, with introduction by J. S. Bergen.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S. Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.), D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Baker, Louise R. Sunbeams and moonbeams. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 4+190 p. 1 il. sq. D. (Sunshine lib.) cl., 50 c. [2883

The "Sunbeams" is the name of a club of girls in emulation of whom their play mates the boys form a club of "Moonbeams," and the story tells of their generous rivalry in doing kind and helpful deeds for the benefit of the community in which they live.

Ball, J: Hints and notes, practical and scientific, for travellers in the Alps: being a revision of the general introduction to the "Alpine guide." New ed., prepared on behalf of the Alpine Club, by W. A. B. Coolidge. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1899. 164 p. S. bds., net, $1. [2884

Barker, Lewellys F., M.D. The nervous system and its constituent neurones; designed for the use of practitioners of medicine and of students of medicine and psychology. N.Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 1150 p. il., 2 col. pls., 8°, cl., $5. [2885

Becke, L:, and Jeffery, Walter. Admiral Phillip; the founding of New South Wales. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1899. 20+336 p. por. D. (Builders of Greater Britain, no. 9.) cl., $1.50. [2886

Captain Arthur Phillip was the first governor of the first Australian colony. Little is known of Phillip's life beyond a half-dozen years of his career—from 1786, when he was chosen to found the settlement of New South Wales, till his return to England in 1792; his despatches and a few contemporary chronicles of that period are the only sources of information, as he indulged scarcely at all in letter-writing. The book, therefore, is rather a narrative of the founding of New South Wales than a biography of the colony's first governor.

Benson, E: F. Mammon & Co. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 4-360 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2887

The "smart" people of London society again find portrayal through the pen of the author of "Dodo." A slim plot, which shows a struggling group of men and women striving to gain riches at the sacrifice of all honesty and dignity, serves the purpose of introducing many and varied characters that are sketched sharply and cleverly. The English bacarat scandal and the Hooley disclosures suggest some of the incidents. The dialogue is the author's strong point; it is, as usual, brilliantly witty. The scene is London. The time the present.

Block, I. S. The future of war in its technical, economic, and political relations. Is war now impossible?; tr. by R. C. Long, and with a prefatory conversation with the author, by W. T. Stead. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. c. 79+390 p. O. cl., $2. [2888

The author is a well-known banker of Warsaw who several years ago forsook finance to devote himself to political economy. After eight years he wrote a monumental work in six volumes, examining the future of war from a political-economical standpoint. The sixth volume of that work is here translated. In it the author summarizes his conclusions. He believes it is impossible that there should ever be a war between great powers—that it is impossible from a military, economic, and political point of view. He specially points out that the preparations against this impossible war are wasting the resources of civilization. The illustrations and diagrams taking in the resources of every nation and their special interests are valuable.

Brooks, Elbridge Streeter. Historic Americans: sketches of the lives and characters of certain famous Americans held most in reverence by the boys and girls of America, for whom their stories are here told; il. by F. T. Merrill. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 8+384 p. O. cl., $1.50. [2889

Beginning with John Winthrop and ending with U. S. Grant, Mr. Brooks includes Franklin, Washington, Samuel Adams, John and John Quincy Adams, Patrick Henry, Jefferson, Hamilton, Robert Morris, Jay, Marshall, Madison, Monroe, Eli Whitney, Jackson, Webster, Irving, Clay, Calhoun, Morse, Horace Mann, Lincoln, and Longfellow. In each case Mr. Brooks seizes a pivotal event to illustrate "the chief characteristic or impulse that led each man along the way of patriotism."

Brunetière, Ferdinand. Art and morality; authorized tr., with prefatory note, by Arthur Beatty. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 37 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2890

Brunetière claims that meretricious forms of beauty cannot change the essence of that which is intrinsically vile and corrupt. He sets up a criterion which appeals to men's sane judgment and sets men to thinking and criticising so that they may have a reason for liking or disliking the products of modern art, literary or plastic.

Bulwer-Lytton, E: Rob., [Lord Lytton, pseud. "Owen Meredith."] Lucile. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 5+360 p. il. D. (Copley ser.) cl., $1. [2891

Burton, J: Bloundelle. A bitter heritage: a modern story of love and adventure. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 4+411 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 272.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [2892

A young lieutenant in the English navy is recalled to his supposed father's deathbed. The dying man tells him he was stolen as a baby from a brother in British Honduras who is now extremely rich. The young man goes at once to Central America, and there begins a most mysterious complication, an heir being already on the spot, the rich planter also being dead. The descriptions of the country, the inhabitants, the many dangers caused by nature and man, and the ingenious solution of the carefully concealed secret, make a story of some originality.

Clark, Kate Upson. Bringing up boys: a study. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 2-227 p. S. cl., 50 c. [2894

Contents: Taking boys seriously; The boy's manners; Boys versus sentimentality; Personal defects and peculiarities; Keeping boys busy; Shall the boy smoke?; Games and athletics; The boy's library; The boy's evenings; The social, moral, and religious discipline of the boy; The boy's politics.

Clough, Arthur Hugh. Poems; with memoir. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] 51+396 p. D. (Crowell's standard lib.) cl., $1. [2895

Cobb, T: Mr. Passingham: an episode in his life. N. Y., J: Lane, 1899. c. 2+220 p. D. cl., $1. [2896

A youthful error confronts Mr. Passingham, M.P., at a most unexpected moment, and radically changes his plan of life. In trying to break up a love affair between Lord Dewhurst, the son of an intimate friend, and a young and pretty but unknown girl, he finds himself face to face with a sin of his past, which he had buried and selfishly forgotten twenty years before. The story has its scene in London in a fashionable quarter, and is brought to a close cleverly and unconventionally.

Cockcroft, Ja., ed. Encyclopædia of forms and precedents for pleading and practice at common law, in equity, and under the various codes and practice acts; ed. by W: Mack and Howard P. Nash, under the supervision of Ja. Cockcroft. V. 9, [Guardian and ward to injunctions.] Northport, N. Y., Ja. D. Cockcroft, 1899. c. 1072 p. O. shp., $6. [2897

Conn, Herbert W: The story of the living machine: a review of the conclusions of modern biology in regard to the mechanism which controls the phenomena of living activity. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 10+191 p. il. S. (Library of useful stories.) cl., 40 c. [2898

The author says the work is designed "with the hope that it may give a clear idea of the trend of recent biological science and of the advances made toward the solution of the problem of life." Pt 1 is concerned with "The running of the living machine" (the human body). Pt. 2 relates to the building of the living machine.

Cook, Albert Stanburrough. The artistic ordering of life. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 2-31 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2899

The writer discusses the question whether art, even religious art, has ever exercised any good; but while he is willing to see the point of view of Ruskin, or even of those who are even more iconoclastic than Ruskin, still he pleads for art as a lightener of toil.

Corson, Hiram. An introduction to the prose and poetical works of John Milton. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. c. 28+303 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2900

Consists of: A general introduction; all the autobiographical passages from the prose and poetical works, constituting in themselves quite a complete life of the poet; the poems of Comus and Lycidas; all passages in the poetical and prose works exhibiting Milton's ideas of individual, domestic, civil, political, and religious liberty; a general survey of the prose works; some general selections from the prose works; the sonnets; a presentation and criticism of the Paradise lost; a criticism of the Paradise regained; Samson Agonistes, with commentary on its autobiographical character, and its relation to the Greek drama; notes and general index. The leading aim of the editor has been to bring the student into the most direct relationship with the personality of the poet.

Creighton, Mandell, (Bp.) Queen Elizabeth. New ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1899. 54+307 p. por. D. cl., $1.50. [2901

First published by Boussod, Valadon & Co., in July, 1896, with numerous illustrations, in an édition de luxe. The author declares his object in writing this work was to sketch the life of Elizabeth as plainly as possible. He has endeavored to illustrate a singularly complex personality rather than to write a history of a time. Elizabeth's life was so closely interwoven with the history of England that he did not always find it possible to separate her actions from public affairs.

Cross, Wilbur Lucius. The development of the English novel. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. c. 14+329 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2902

Traces in outline the course of English fiction from Arthurian romance to Stevenson, indicating in the earlier chapters continental sources and tributaries. The leading novelists of a school or a period are taken up and critically and historically treated. Delightfully appreciative chapters are offered on Richardson, Fielding, Smollett, Sterne, Scott, Dickens, Thackeray, Anthony Trollope, Charlotte Brontë, George Eliot, Meredith, and Kipling. There are added in an appendix a list of twenty-five prose fictions logically arranged, showing in large outline the development of the English novel, and some bibliographical notes. The book is as much for the general reader as the student.

Curtis, G: W: Prue and I; with an introd. by M. A. De Wolfe Howe. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 21+234 p. il. D. (Copley ser.) cl., $1. [2903

Defoe, Dan. The life and adventures of Robinson Crusoe of York, mariner. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 6-353 p. il. S. (Children's favorite classics.) cl., 60 c. [2904

Dougherty, Jeannette M. Opportunities for culture. N: Y. T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 3-37 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2905

Field, Mrs. Caroline Leslie. Nannie's happy childhood. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 4+155 p. il. D. cl., $1. [2911

A story for little children; tells of a little girl's childhood, her quaint sayings and doings, and bright imaginings, the latter bringing in an element of fairyland.

Finch, J: A. Digest of insurance cases, embracing all decisions in any manner affecting insurance companies or their contracts, [etc.] V. 11, for the year ending Oct. 31, 1898. Indianapolis, The Rough Notes Co., 1899. c. 48+456 p. O. hf. shp., $3. [2912

Forbes, J: Murray. Letters and recollections of John Murray Forbes; ed. by his daughter, Sarah Forbes Hughes. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 2 v., 11+353; 8+264 p. pors. facsimile, O. cl., $5. [2913

John Murray Forbes was born in 1813, and died in 1893. He was a New Englander, and a man of almost ideal public spirit. As a business man, as an element in the highest politics of his state and country, his influence was widespread. His life brought him into contact with the notable men of his time in literature as well as in public life. His letters and reminiscences, covering a long life of eighty years, are full of the most interesting details of people and events. Mr. Forbes wrote an autobiography, which his daughter has carefully edited, adding many letters by and to her father.

Fraser, Mrs. C. F. Strawberry Hill. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 3+54 p. 1 il. sq. D. (Sunshine lib.) cl., 50 c. [2914

"Strawberry Hill" is the name of an ideal farm, and Mrs. Fraser gives a few pictures from the life led there by kind Aunt Drusilla and the prim Ann Ruth Jane, and especially the happy Frank Black.

Gaskell, Mrs. Eliz. Cleghorn. Cranford; with a preface by Anne Thackeray Ritchie. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 24+290 p. il. D. (Copley ser.) cl., $1. [2915

Genung, J: Franklin. The passing of self: two practical chapters drawn from the words of Christ. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 46 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2916

Professor Genung shows what the Golden Rule really is. He shows that Christ demands something even beyond that. He applies the touchstone of truth to what often passes as sacrifice and self-denial, and he illustrates how insidious and protean self and selfishness are.

Gordon, H. R. Osceola, chief of the Seminoles. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1899. 4+322 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2917

The story begins in the year 1835, and relates to the struggle of the Seminole Indians against their transportation from their lands in Florida to the Indian Territory by the United States, according to a treaty some of their chiefs had ratified. The war was a fierce and bloody one, only ending in 1842. Osceola, the great Indian chief, led his people. Two young fellows of sixteen and seventeen are the central figures of many stirring incidents. The account of the war is accurate in all details.

Hall, Ruth. The boys of Scrooby. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 7+315 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2921

The boys were three brothers, sons of a leading Separatist or Independent, flying from Scrooby, England, in 1608, to escape religious persecution. The boys became separated. Hugh, the elder brother, is kidnapped by the "spirits," wrecked in the Sea-Venture, and becomes a witness to the Jamestown massacre; Jack, as attendant of the Princess Elizabeth, suffers in the first of the Thirty Years' War before he reaches Fort Orange, where Albany now stands, in the days of the Patroons; Stephen is one of the Pilgrims, and the chapters relating to his life are crowded with strange, true stories of Plymouth. The author also wrote "In the brave days of old."

Hamblen. Herbert Elliott, ["F. Benton Williams," pseud.] The yarn of a bucko mate: his adventures in two oceans. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 9+295 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2922

The accurate knowledge of sea life and the vivid imagination which made "On many seas" so convincing are again shown in this history of about twenty years in the life of a sailor on two oceans in the days when captains could treat their crew as slaves. A reading of "Blackbeard" and "Captain Kidd" turned the hero's mind from a passion for astronomy to a passion for the sea. He stole railroad rides on coal trains and reached New York. He shipped in a small packet, and from that, after many hairbreadth escapes, became captain of a ship; then left the sea to seek for buried treasure. Finally returned to America to educate his son, and made him different from his father.

The revolt of La Vendée against the French republic at the time of the Revolution forms the groundwork of the story. A young English lad forms a company of boys as scouts for the Vendéean army; he is drawn into the thickest of the conflict, and greatly aids the peasants. He rescues his sister from the guillotine, and has other thrilling adventures.

The scene is laid at the time of the great revolt of the blacks, by which Hayti became independent. Toussaint l'Ouverture appears, and an admirable picture is given of him and of his power. The hero of the story is Nat Glover, a midshipman in the British navy; he is constantly in trouble and difficulty, but is so resourceful and energetic that he generally extricates himself triumphantly.

Henty, G: Alfred. Won by the sword: a tale of the Thirty Years' War; il. by C: M. Sheldon, and four plans. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 6+384 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2928

The story is laid in France during the latter part of the Thirty Years' War—the time of Richelieu, of Mazarin, and Anne of Austria. The orphaned son of a Scotch officer in the French army is the hero. Hector Campbell, as he is called, rises almost to the highest rank in the French army through his bravery and daring.

Hillegas, Howard C. Oom Paul's people: a narrative of the British-Boer troubles in South Africa, with a history of the Boers, the country and its institutions. N. Y.

Appleton, 1899. c. 9+308 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2930

The author is a New York newspaper man who spent nearly two years in South Africa enjoying special facilities at the hands of President Kruger and other Boer officials as well as from Sir Alfred Milner and other British representatives at Cape Colony. The book contains an important interview with Oom Paul and a special study of Cecil Rhodes. Mr. Hillegas blames stock-jobbers and politicians for all the trouble between the Boers and the English, and believes that war is the probable final outcome. One chapter is especially devoted to the American interests in South Africa, showing that, while British capital owns the vast gold mines, American brains operate them.

A study of the year 1859, which played so important a part in the destinies of France and Italy. Gives a brief account of the battles of Magenta and Solferino. The writer was attached to the political department of the ministry of foreign affairs, and has had access to the despatches written before, during, and after the war. He shows that this war with Italy produced profound modifications in international law. He contends with Jules Favre that Italians and French are united by common origin and veritable interests, and can now only become enemies through the criminal folly of their governments.

Müller, F. Max. Auld lang syne. 2d ser. My Indian friends. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 12+301 p. D. cl., $2. [2959

The first series of "Auld lang syne," published in February, 1898, contained recollections of musicians, poets, crowned heads, and beggars whom the writer had met in his long life of seventy years. This series is devoted to certain events that first led his attention to India. Although he has made a life study of the literature, philosophy, and religion of India, Max Müller has never seen India. His greatest Indian friends were the poets of the land, and he here gives metrical translations of many of their hymns. They revealed to him a whole world of thought of which no trace existed elsewhere, and they helped him to throw light and reason on perhaps the darkest period of the history of religion, philosophy, and mythology.

The story of young Kelso Stuart, of Virginia, whose father is a U. S. Senator. Major Stuart wants his son Kelso to be a lawyer, and takes him to Washington with him that he may, by associating with lawyers, imbibe a liking for the profession. But Kelso wants to go to sea, and has his wish carried out in an unexpected way. The time is just before the War of 1812, and he is kidnapped one day by a press gang and carried on board a British ship. When it is found out who he is the captain is afraid to keep him, and he is placed aboard an American whaler. This is the beginning of many adventures, the young man ending his career as an officer of the American man-of-war Essex.

Norris, Frank. Blix. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. c. 3+339 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2963

The author of "McTeague" has imagined a heroine of nineteen, with strength of body and strength of mind and most lovable womanly qualities, to whom the hero gives the name of "Blix" because there is so much "snap" and "go" about her. After several months of companionship the girl and the editor of the Sunday supplement of a San Francisco paper agree that they are not lovers, but they become chums and friends. They go about a great deal, and the Chinese district, the shipping districts, and the resorts where gambling is carried on, are described. "Blix" is an influence for good, and makes a man of her chum.

Mr. Watson is late editor and proprietor of The Engineer, and author of "Modern practice," "Manual of the hand lathe," etc. The present work is illustrated by thirty full-page working dimensioned drawings. It contains also, in addition to the matter covered by the title, hints upon lathe-work, vice-work, and finishing metals.

Whitney, Mrs. Adeline Dutton. Square pegs. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 4+507 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2980

The little heroine, Estabel Charlock, is fifteen when introduced. "She was being brought up in sections, as it were," the author says, "by two aunts, in very irregular alternations." One aunt was the village milliner, the other a comparatively rich woman, living in a city. When Estabel is fifteen her city aunt, Mrs. Clymer, claims her for her own, and a long vista of joy opens to the young girl—an education, the delights of books, art, music, etc. The story does not stray very far from the home, and the homely incidents, Mrs. Whitney knows so well how to portray. It has its romance, and ends with a prospective marriage. The heroine illustrates, with her own little problems, the impossibility of putting square pegs into round holes.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AMERICAN PAPER GAINING FAVOR IN EUROPEAN MARKETS.

AMERICAN paper manufacturers are making rapid gains in their exportations to foreign markets. Recent statistics dealing with the imports of foreign paper into Great Britain show that the total imports of foreign paper into that country amounted in the first half of the calendar year 1899 to nearly $10,000,000 in value, and that the United States stood third in the list of those furnishing this supply, at least so far as related to quantity. The countries which furnished the largest supply were Norway, with 364,789 hundredweights, and Sweden, with 295,366, the United States coming next with 222,009, Holland 217,064, Germany 168,192, and Belgium 121,884. The exportation of paper from the United States has increased very rapidly during the decade, being in 1899 nearly five times as much as in 1889.

The following table shows the value of the exports of paper and manufactures thereof from the United States from 1889 to 1889:

FISCAL YEAR.	VALUE.	FISCAL YEAR.	VALUE.
	Dollars.		Dollars.
1889	1,191,035	1895	2,185,257
1890	1,226,686	1896	2,713,875
1891	1,299,169	1897	3,333,163

THE DEVELOPMENT OF PUBLISHING IN CANADA.

ACCORDING to George N. Morang, of Toronto, who read a paper on the subject at the recent International Publishers' Congress, Toronto is the main seat of the publishing interest in Canada. The publishing concerns there have increased from two in 1869 to nine considerable houses and several smaller ones in 1899. We shall probably be correct in assigning as the main reason for the preponderating increase of Toronto publishing the fact that Ontario, the province in which Toronto is situated (and which, I may be permitted to remind some of you, has an area of 220,000 square miles to England's 50,000,) has always contained the bulk of Canadian English-speaking readers. Although to Quebec belongs the honor of having—130 years ago—set up and printed the first book ever published in Canada, it must be remembered that five-sixths of its million and a half of population still maintain that idyllic disregard of modern books which, however charming it may be to the social observer, is not interesting to the publisher from a business point of view. It has come to pass therefore, that Toronto has gradually been recognized as the centre for the distribution of books in English throughout the whole of Canada, and the books in that language which form the great proportion of those which are read and bought are distributed chiefly from Toronto to Quebec, to the Maritime Provinces, to Manitoba, British Columbia, and the rest of the Dominion. There has been a corresponding development in Toronto and the neighborhood of the allied trades. About £1,000,000 is invested in paper-making establishments, £1,500,000 in printing, and £750,000 in bookbinding. The product of these concerns is equal in quality to that of the United States or London, and in Canadian bookstores, where Canadian made books are to be seen side by side with those of British and United States manufacture, the Canadian volumes do not suffer by the comparison. It follows that a very considerable amount annually is paid to workers in the trades that are allied to publishing, an amount that probably compares very favorably pro rata of population with that paid by similar industries in Great Britain. Canada has in this particular arrived at the adult stage, possesses those printing and publishing facilities which are characteristic of the adult nation, and is prepared to print books by its own authors, or to reprint those of English, American, or other writers, as cheaply and expeditiously as they can be done elsewhere. It is necessary to bear in mind the perfection of our equipment in this direction to arrive at a correct estimate of the relative conditions of British and Canadian publishing."

CORRECTING PRICES IN "PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL," 1899.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. call the attention of the trade to the following corrections of prices in their list in "The Publishers' Trade List Annual:" "The Court of Boyville," by William Allen White, $1.50 instead of $1.25; also. "The Golden Vanity," by Pamela Colman Smith, $2.50 net, instead of $2.50. The trade will please note these corrections in their copies of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual" for 1899.

NEW BOOKS ON ADMIRAL DEWEY.

THREE books on the "Hero of Manila" are just ready or are being rushed through the press as rapidly as possible, so that they may be in circulation at the time of Admiral Dewey's arrival in this country next week:

D. APPLETON & Co. have nearly ready Rossiter Johnson's "The Hero of Manila," which, besides presenting pictures drawn from Dewey's early youth, will also have half-tone reproductions of photographs of the arch in Madison Square, the sword to be presented by the nation, the Dewey medal, and the shield which is presented to the flagship by the people of Olympia, Washington.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. will publish probably on the 18th inst. a volume by Frederick Palmer, entitled "George Dewey, Admiral: Impressions of the Admiral and the Olympia on Her Homeward Progress from Manila." Mr. Palmer has had exceptional opportunities for observing the Admiral, having followed the Olympia from port to port over Southern Europe. The volume will contain several intimate conversations with Dewey.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready John Barrett's volume entitled "Admiral George Dewey." Mr. Barrett, after serving as United States Minister to Siam, had an eventful career as war correspondent at Manila from May, 1898, to March, 1899. He has a personal acquaintance with the Admiral, and has had the privilege of using material that is believed to be beyond the reach of many biographers. A particular feature of the book deals with Dewey as a diplomatist, and throws new light on the German episode in Manila Bay.

COPYRIGHT IN COSTA RICA.

THE United States Minister Merry, at San José, Costa Rica, on the 13th inst., informed the State Department that the government of that country has issued a decree establishing international copyright between Costa Rica and the United States.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CHARLES PATRICK DALY, ex-Chief Justice of the New York Court of Common Pleas and President of the American Geographical Society, died suddenly at his summer home at North Haven, Long Island, on the 19th inst. Judge Daly was born in New York City, October 31, 1816. His father, a master carpenter, died when Daly was a boy, and rather than be dependent on his stepmother he went to Savannah, Ga., where he became a clerk. Dissatisfied with his employer, he shipped before the mast and spent three years at sea. On his return to New York he became a mechanic. After his apprenticeship he entered the law office of William Soule, and in 1839 was admitted to the bar. Mr. Daly then formed a partnership with Thomas McElrath, who afterwards became publisher of the New York Tribune. Daly was elected to the New York Legislature in 1843 and in 1844, and was scarcely twenty-eight years old when he succeeded Judge Inglis as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. He took his seat on the bench on May 4, 1844, and did not retire until December 31, 1885, serving continuously for nearly forty-two years—the longest judicial record ever made in New York State. For more than thirty-four years Justice Daly was president of the American Geographical Society, and the annual addresses he delivered before that society rank among the valuable contributions to geographical literature. Judge Daly was a great lover of books, and he had a library of more than 12,000 volumes. He wrote and published several books, his principal works being "A History of Naturalization and of its Laws in Different Countries," "The Judicial Tribunals of New York from 1623 to 1846," "The Origin and History of Institutions for the Promotion of Useful Arts by Industrial Exhibitions," "The First Settlement of the Jews in North America," "When Was the Drama Introduced in America?" "What We Knew of Maps and Map Making Before the Time of Mercator," "The Nature, Extent, and History of the Surrogates Court in New York State," and "Comparisons Between Ancient and Modern Banking Systems." Judge Daly visited Europe several times, and was an honorary member of nearly all of the foreign geographical societies. In 1860 Columbia College conferred upon him the degree of LL.D.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Scribner's Magazine announces that during 1900 it will publish serially, in six instalments, a history of Oliver Cromwell, by Theodore Roosevelt. The articles will be profusely and richly illustrated by F. C. Yohn, E. C. Peixotto, Henry McCarter, and other well-known artists, as well as with many rare portraits, relics and other valuable matter.

IN The Century for October announcement will be made of the names of the three winners of the prizes offered for the best poem, essay, and story submitted in competition by American college graduates of 1898. Last year all the prizes were won by alumnæ of Eastern women's colleges; this year's winners are Westerners, and only one of them is a woman. The prize poem, entitled "A Hill-Prayer," is by Miss Marion Warner Wildman, of Norwalk, Ohio, B.A., 1898, of the College for Women of Western Reserve University, at Cleveland, Ohio. The prize essay, entitled "The Poetry of Blake: An Opinion," is by Mr. Henry Justin Smith, of Chicago, B.A., 1898, of the University of Chicago. The prize story, entitled "Only the Master Shall Praise," is by Mr. John M. Oskison, of Vinita, Indian Territory, B.A., 1898, of Leland Stanford Jr. University, at Palo Alto, California.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Hungarian novelist Jokai, now in his seventy-fifth year, was married on the 16th inst. at Budapest to the Hungarian actress Arabella Grossnagy, a girl of eighteen.

PROFESSOR W. P. TRENT, whose recent book, "The Authority of Criticism," has been so highly spoken of, has been commissioned to write a volume on American literature for the series of Literary Histories, published in this country by D. Appleton & Co. by arrangement with Heinemann, of London.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALTOONA, PA.—The American Publishing Company has been incorporated to engage in the work of printing and publishing books, newspapers, and periodicals and pamphlets.

BALTIMORE, MD.—E. R. F. Blogg has resigned his position with the Baltimore News Co., with whom he was for eighteen years, to become chief clerk with B. G. Eichelberger, the bookseller, on North Charles Street.

BOSTON, MASS.—B. F. Larrabee & Co., dealers in books and notions, have made an assignment.

EPHRAIM, UTAH.—Larson & Neilson, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—John A. Heilman, bookseller, has gone into voluntary bankruptcy.

RED OAK, IA.—F. T. McLaughlin, bookseller, has been succeeded by Walter Austin.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—A correspondent of the Boston Literary World writes: "On San Francisco's Market Street, under the frowning bays and cornices of the Palace Hotel, at the point where the currents of life and trade flow with their greatest volume, stands the now vacant and deserted bookstore of Mr. William Doxey, of whose enterprise, taste, and success the eccentric Lark was at one time and for some time a conspicuous sign. Many friends at the East, as well as at the West, are sorry to know of the repeated reverses that have overtaken and overwhelmed Mr. Doxey, but they will be glad to know that in the 'Doxey Book Company' not only is his name to survive, but his genial personality too, with the hope and prospect of a good amount of salvage from the wreck, and of new ventures which, perhaps, may lead to more prosperous conclusions."

VICTOR, COL.—Walter Haines will open a bookstore here.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just published "A Cycle of Stories," by Barbara Yechton, bound in a style uniform with "Derrick" and "A Lovable Crank."

FRANK H. SEVERANCE, editor of the Illustrated Buffalo Express, is about to publish historical studies, entitled "Old Trails on the Niagara Frontier."

D. APPLETON & CO. have just ready a new novel by Sir William Magnay, the author of "The Pride of Life," etc., entitled "The Heiress of the Season."

HENRY HOLT & CO. have just issued a memoir of Dr. Henry George Liddell by the Rev. Henry L. Thompson. The work contains numerous illustrations, including portraits.

JOHN J. DALY, of The Bookseller and Newsman, is making an extended trip to the Pacific Coast and the Southwest. His book on "Window Dressing," devoted to book, stationery, and periodical displays, is just ready.

R. F. FENNO & CO. have just ready three novels—"The House in the Hills," by Florence Warden; "The Yellow Danger, or, what might happen if the division of the Chinese empire should estrange all European countries," by M. P. Shiel; and "Honor of Thieves," by C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne.

THE UNION GOSPEL NEWS, of Cleveland, Ohio, will publish shortly in their series of The Religious Life of Famous Americans a monograph by Walden Fawcett, entitled "George Washington as a Churchman." This monograph will shortly be followed by others on Franklin, Webster, Lincoln, and other notable Americans.

ELKIN MATHEWS, London, will shortly publish a series of letters by Charles Lamb and William Hazlitt which have been for fifty years in the possession of Mr. Yates, a friend of Hazlitt's son. A number of Hazlitt's letters tell about school life. Lamb's letters are addressed to friends and are chatty. None of them has been printed before.

"COIN" ZERBE, of Tyrone, Pa., has published in convenient pocket form a very full collection of facts relating to money and stamps, under the title of "Nut Shell Facts on Coins, Stamps and Paper Money." It gives a concise history of the coins now rare and their present value, and much other information concerning coins and stamps, that will be useful to collectors.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. have just published a book for easy reading for the little ones, by Mrs. D. P. Sanford, entitled "Little Folks at Brookside." The book contains 12 full-page illustrations, and is printed in large type. "Reflected Lights from the Face of the Deep," by Christina Rossetti, and a "Year-Book of Colonial Times," compiled by Frederick A. Sill, D.D., are also now ready.

D. C. HEATH & CO. have just issued Spanhoofd's "Lehrbuch der Deutschen Sprache," a first year's course in German where the work in the class-room is conducted in the German language. Teachers who have used Fontaine's "Livre de Lecture et de Conversation" will be interested to know that the edition of 1899, just issued by D. C. Heath & Co., contains a complete vocabulary in English.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. will publish shortly an important work on "The Redemption of Egypt," by W. Basil Worsfold. The object of this work is to represent the physical and social characteristics of Egypt in connection with the work of political reorganization and industrial development that is now in progress. Worsfold visited Egypt in the winter of 1898–9 for the purpose of collecting information and making sketches for the book.

MOSES KING, New York City, is preparing a "Dewey Committee Album," which will contain about ninety-six pages, 9 x 12, and embrace seven hundred portraits, showing the committee appointed by the Mayor of New York City to welcome Admiral Dewey. The photographs have been prepared gratis by several well-known photographers. There will be an edition of 10,000 copies of this handsome souvenir, which will be uniform with "King's Notable New Yorkers."

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. have published a useful manual, entitled "The War-Revenue Act of 1898 Explained," by John M. Gould and Edward H. Savary. Besides the text of the act, the interpretations and decisions are given which every section has received or occasioned, as well as the decisions of the English courts on similar provisions of their stamp acts. An appendix contains a paper on the law in its relations to conveyancing, prepared by the Abstract Club of Boston.

FLEMING H. REVELL CO. announce for this week a new book by Egerton R. Young, the popular writer of boys' stories, entitled "The Apostle of the North, James Evans," which contains an account of the life of James Evans among the Cree Indians in the Far North. They have also just ready a new book by Mrs. W. W. Scudder, entitled "Nineteen Centuries of Missions," which is a handbook for young people, giving a connected history of the wonderful work that has been accomplished in the mission fields.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY will publish immediately an édition de luxe of the "Imitation of Christ," limited to 650 copies, of which 150 only are for sale in the United States. The illustrations, title-page, and initial letters are designed by Laurence Housman, and engraved on wood by Miss Clemence Housman. The printing is done in red and black on Arnold's and Foster's unbleached and handmade paper, and the binding is vellum parchment, with heavy printed wrapper, making in all a sumptuous edition of the classic, which will be appreciated by connoisseurs of the art of book-making.

THE MACMILLAN CO. have just ready three books of great interest to students of literature: "The Development of the English Novel," by Wilbur F. Cross, of Yale University; "Some Principles of Literary Criticism," by C. T. Winchester, of Wesleyan University; and "An Introduction to the Works of John Milton," by Hiram Corson, of Cornell University. They will shortly issue "The History of New Testament Times in Palestine," 175 B.C.–70 A.D., intended as a desirable introduction to the Sunday-School lessons of 1900–1901, which has been written by Professor Shailer Mathews; and "Imperative Surgery for the General Practitioner, the Specialist, the Recent Graduate," by Dr. Howard Lilienthal, of Mount Sinai Hospital. Maurice Hewlett's new book, "Little Novels of Italy," is also almost ready, and said to be as good as "The Forest Lovers."

ABRAHAM P. T. ELDER, manager of the British-American Publishing Company, at 17 West Forty-second Street, New York, was arrested on the 16th inst. by Deputy United States Marshals McAviney and Krum, on a warrant issued by the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois, charging him with using the mails for a scheme to defraud. He waived examination, and in default of $5000 bail was committed to Ludlow Street Jail, to await the arrival of extradition papers from Illinois. According to the statement of Post-Office Inspector Farrell, of Chicago, who came to New York with Inspector Mayer, the prisoner advertised for agents all over the country to sell his books. He secured deposits from agents for books, instructing them to sell them at double the price. Elder had started business in New York, and had well-furnished rooms, where he employed a dozen or more typewriters in answering his army of correspondents anxious to secure work as agents. He has served a term of eighteen months in Joliet Prison for an offence similar to that with which he is now charged.

C. DE HASBROUCK, 57 Bromfield Street, Boston, announces that the publication of "Bermuda and the Poets," by J. C. L. Clark, announced for November 30 next, has been postponed until February 1, 1900. In the first part of this little book will be considered the connection of Shakespeare's "Tempest," with the wreck of the Sea-Venture; the Waller Myth; the occasion of Marvell's "Song of the Emigrants in Bermuda;" Bishop Berkeley's scheme to found there a missionary college, and the writings of the famous Tucker family of Bermuda and Virginia, and of T. E. Nelmes, a Bermudian poet. Nathaniel Tucker, M.D., the translator of Swedenborg, will receive considerable attention. Some related matters are touched on in passing. The second part will be a reprint, with additions and alterations, of a pamphlet printed two years ago, entitled "Tom Moore in Bermuda." This essay tells the story of the Irish poet's residence in Bermuda in 1804, and his acquaintance with "Nea" (Hester Louisa Tucker), and considers the poems which he wrote during his sojourn there. Mr. Clark has decided to reserve for separate publication the matter announced as appendices of "Bermuda and the Poets."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. have just ready four important books on foreign lands: Knox Little's "South Africa;" Mrs. Archibald Little's "Intimate China;" Alexander Platonovich Engelhardt's "A Russian Province of the North," which describes the portion of the coast of Lapland known as the province of Archangel, which is likely at no distant date to become of first-rate commercial and naval importance; and "The Heart of Asia," by E. H. Skrine and E. D. Ross, giving a history of Russian Turkestan and the Central Asian Khanates from the earliest times, illustrated with 19 of Verestchagin's pictures. Julien de Narpon has written "Pope Leo XIII., His Life and Work;" Robert C. Kirk has described twelve months in Klondike profusely illustrated; and Jules Huret's long-expected "Life of Sarah Bernhardt" is issued with a preface by Edmond Rostand, in G. A. Raper's translation. Fifty illustrations show the great actress in most of her rôles. Besides these they have just ready "Robespierre and the Red Terror," translated from the Dutch of Dr. Janten Brink, professor at the University of Leyden, by J. Hedeman, with 16 illustrations. All these books are of English manufacture. The newest American book is "The Growth of the Constitution in the Federal Convention of 1787," by William M. Meigs, containing a facsimile of a heretofore unpublished manuscript of the first draft of the instrument made for use in the committee of detail.

BOOKBINDING FOR PUBLISHERS

IT is easy enough to solicit and obtain business when you can offer low prices. But it is necessary to have something besides low prices. A good reputation, good work and the ability to live up to contracts are some of these qualifications. There are many bookbinders who will take work for a low price and then cheapen the binding and delay the work because they have not the facilities of turning it out, thus defrauding the publishers.

In my new place of business, in the building at the corner of Centre and Leonard Streets, where I have a floor space of over 40,000 square feet, filled with the very latest and most modern machinery, such as automatic cutting and trimming machines, rapid quadruple folding machines, new model Smyth sewing machines, the most powerful smashing machines, the very latest improved Crawley rounding and backing machines, Smyth bookcase machines, and the very finest stamping department in this city, all run by my own electric plant, also a very extensive marbling and edge gilding department, managed by the most skilled mechanics. My capacity is over 15,000 cloth bound books per day, and I can do the best work at the lowest prices. I can safely say that I can save publishers who have large editions to be bound from 10 to 20 per cent. on all bindings. I am now ready to make arrangements for bindings for the year 1900.

This is not a plant run by capitalists, or any other moneyed trust or syndicate as a venture, but a well-appointed bindery, managed by a practical man who has made a life study of bookbinding, and has risen from apprenticeship to ownership.

American Lands and Letters.

DONALD G. MITCHELL.

New Volume. LEATHER-STOCKING TO POE'S RAVEN. By DONALD G. MITCHELL. With 150 illustrations. 8vo, $2.50.

The period covered in this volume contains a score of the greatest names in our literary history, and Mr. Mitchell's easy but intimate and incisive characterizations of Hawthorne, Emerson, Holmes, Thoreau, Longfellow, Whittier, Bancroft, Poe, and others, are especially notable in view of the importance of the subjects. The author's acquaintance with many of these men gives a delightful flavor of autobiography to the book. The many portraits, facsimiles and views of literary interest make up an unusually attractive series of illustrations.

 This volume and the companion work covering the period from the Mayflower to Rip Van Winkle. 2 vols., 8vo, in a box, $5.00.

"A book which will not only be welcomed by his thousands of old readers, but is likely to win more thousands of new ones for him."—New York Mail and Express.

On Trial.

A Novel. By "ZACK," author of "Life is Life." 12mo, $1.50.

A book marked by a striking dramatic quality, the plot being fresh and the dénouement thoroughly artistic In a psychological way the book is noteworthy, no novel in years containing a more absorbingly interesting analysis of a mental state than is here given of moral cowardice. From every point of view, in fact, the novel is a work of the highest importance.

King Noanett

A Story of Old Virginia and the Massachusetts Bay. By F. J. STIMSON (J. S. of Dale). New and cheaper edition. 12mo, $1.00.

A new edition, without illustrations, of Mr. Stimson's great American historical novel, which the New York Tribune declared to be "a book designed for all ages."
